

A MONTHLY
CULTURE MATRIX
FOR THE COSMOPOLITAN TRAVELER

Louise Bourgeois, "Night and Day," 2007. Photo: Christopher Burke. © The Easton Foundation / 2020, ProLitteris, Zurich Courtesy The Easton Foundation and Hauser & Wirth.

Louise Bourgeois: The Heart Has Its Reasons

DECEMBER 19, 2020 - FEBRUARY 3, 2021
TARMAK 22 GSTAAD ART

The French mathematician Blaise Pascal once said, "The heart has its reasons of which reason knows nothing." It is little known that Louise Bourgeois, before her mother's death in 1932, studied mathematics and philosophy. When she turned to art making, that learning came too. Bourgeois created works that investigate transcendent and eternal themes: death and the subconscious, love and ego. Her mother looms large. In this exhibition, landmark sculptures such as Couple, Untitled 7, and Brother & Sister are among the works on display. —E.C.

Tarmak 22

Oeystrasse 29, 3792 Gstaad, Switzerland

Get Directions »